

Dance to Sitar

Sunday 18 November, 2 – 4 pm

A dance session for contact improvisation at the University Club, 11 Mansfield Road, Oxford, OX1 3SZ. Beginners and experienced dancers welcome. Jack Hally plays sitar.

Contact improvisation is a dance which originated in the 1970's and which has now spread throughout the world. It's often taught in university dance courses but it's easy to learn and fun. It's an improvised dance – a dialogue in movement – which has a fluid and dynamic form. Please wear loose clothing and bring a water bottle. Cost: £10 /£8 concessions.

Oxford Contact Dance

www.contactdance.org